Opening Statement

“Thank you for participating. We are developing a mental health support application to improve accessibility and support for patients. Your responses are confidential and will only be used for academic purposes. You may skip any question or stop at any point if uncomfortable. There are no right or wrong answers; we simply want to understand your experience.”

Section 1: Background Information (Ice Breaker)

Q1. Could you tell us a little about yourself? (Age range, occupation/student status, and anything you'd like to share about your lifestyle.)

Purpose: Understand demographics and routines.

Answer: I am a 20-year-old undergraduate student studying Fashion Design. My daily life mainly revolves around managing assignments and keeping up with my studies, so I am usually very busy with academic work.

Q2. Are you comfortable sharing your mental health diagnosis or concerns?

(Follow-up)

- When were you diagnosed?

Purpose: Understand conditions.

Answer: I was diagnosed around one year ago by my psychologist. I realized something was wrong because I started neglecting many responsibilities and isolated myself from the world. I withdrew from people a lot and experienced severe panic attacks, which made me realize I needed help.

Q3. What symptoms or struggles do you experience because of your condition?

Answer: I experience a lot of fatigue, appetite changes, and I tend to overthink constantly. I also isolate myself frequently from others. These have been some of the main struggles I experience because of my condition.

Section 2: Current Mental Healthcare Experience

Q4. Can you describe your experience seeking mental health support?

Answer: When I was first diagnosed, seeking support was easier. However, because of my degree and academic responsibilities, it has become more difficult over time. I struggle to find enough time to attend appointments and properly continue treatment.

Q5. What challenges do you face when booking appointments? (based on personal experience)

Answer: The biggest challenge for me is traveling and matching appointments with my lecture schedule. Because of my academic commitments, it is difficult to find specialists whose availability matches my free time.

Q6. Have you ever delayed seeking help? Why?

Answer: Yes, I have delayed seeking help because of my studies. My schedule is very busy, and I often cannot find enough time. It was never because I thought I did not need treatment or medication, but simply because my academic commitments made it difficult to continue consistently.

Q7. How comfortable are you discussing mental health openly?

Answer: I mostly talk about my mental health with my mother. I have also informed my friends about my condition because I want them to understand my situation. If I experience a panic attack or another issue, they will know how to respond and support me. I generally speak about it only with selected people I trust.

Section 03: Technology Usage & Digital Behavior

Q8. Do you currently use any apps/websites related to mental health?

(Follow Up) What do you like/dislike about them?

Answer: I do not currently use mental health apps or websites specifically. However, I use appointment booking applications such as e-channeling services to book appointments.

What I like about these systems is that booking appointments through apps is convenient. What I dislike is that if appointments are cancelled or schedules change, the refund process becomes very difficult and frustrating.

Q9. What frustrates you about existing healthcare or appointment systems? (Any improvements?)

Answer: I have not used many healthcare systems personally, so I cannot comment much on them. However, if I were to use such systems more often, I would prefer them to be simple, minimal, and user-friendly.

Q10. If a mental health app existed, what would make you trust it?

Answer: I would trust a mental health app if it included verified doctors and maintained strong privacy measures. I would feel more comfortable if anonymity was available, allowing me to remain anonymous while using the service.

Section 4: Therapist Matching (Aimed at therapist rec. Qs.)

Q11. When looking for a therapist, what information matters most?

Answer: The cost matters a lot because therapy has become expensive. Apart from affordability, the therapist's specialization and experience are also very important factors for me when choosing someone suitable.

Q12. What questions should an app ask before recommending a therapist?

Answer: I think previous diagnoses are very important. The app should also ask about symptoms and consider privacy and security concerns. These factors would help recommend a therapist who is more suitable for the person's needs.

Section 5: Emergency & Crisis Situations

Q13. Have you experienced a mental health crisis? Only if comfortable

Answer: Yes. I have experienced many panic attacks, emotional breakdowns, depression, and even some harmful thoughts.

Q14. During emergencies, what support would help you most?

Answer: During emergencies, immediate call support would help me the most. I also think location sharing would be very useful in crisis situations.

Q15. Would you use emergency same-day booking? Why?

Answer: Yes, I would use emergency same-day booking because, during urgent situations, getting immediate access to professional support would be very helpful.

Section 6: Anonymous Community & Peer Support

Q16. Would anonymous support groups help you? Why?

Answer: Yes, anonymous support groups would help because it can be difficult to open up when living with mental health struggles. People may judge you, and remaining anonymous would make it easier to speak honestly about personal experiences.

Q17. What concerns would you have about anonymous communities?

Answer: My main concerns would be receiving wrong advice, misinformation, privacy issues, and judgment from others.

Section 7: Privacy & Security (As mental health data is sensitive)

Q18. What privacy concerns would stop you from using a mental health app?

Answer: I would be most concerned about people gaining access to my personal information or misusing my data without my consent.

Q19. Would anonymity encourage you to seek support earlier?

Answer: Yes. If I remained anonymous, I would feel more comfortable seeking support earlier because any judgment would not be directed toward my real identity.

Final Question (Ending)

Q20. Is there anything you wish healthcare providers or technology developers understood better about mental health patients?

Answer: I think many mental health services are highly expensive and focused heavily on money. Cost is a major issue because some people simply cannot afford support easily. I believe healthcare providers and technology developers should better understand the financial barriers many mental health patients face.

Closing Statement

“Thank you for sharing your experiences. Your insights will help us design a more accessible and supportive mental health application for people who may face similar challenges.”
